

A Day in the Life at the Boca Burger plant

Bertha Valenzuela clocks in and is ready for a hard day's work at the Boca Burger plant.

Bertha Valenzuela picks up a newly packaged set of soy-based meatless breakfast links at the Boca Burger plant in Hobbs.

Bertha Valenzuela dons her production line coat in preparation for another day's work at the Boca Burger plant. She has been working there for six years and is now a packaging line supervisor.

The assembly line at the Boca Burger factory. The plant employees approximately 175 people.

Breakfast links roll down the conveyor belt on their way to be packaged at the Boca Burger plant.

Bertha Valenzuela pulls breakfast links from a bin and prepares them on one of several conveyor belts for packaging.

Bertha Valenzuela gets her hands dirty next to the other workers as they get the products ready for packaging at the Boca Burger plant.

Bertha Valenzuela checks a reading on a screen hooked up to the fryer at the Boca Burger plant.